I'm a legal director in the property disputes team, working with and advising both commercial and individual clients on commercial and residential property-related disputes. Clients value my practical advice, and ability to understand their concerns and work with them to find a resolution.

With over 30 years' City experience, many years as a partner and head of the real estates disputes team at a City firm, I enjoy guiding clients and advising them on ways to find a way to resolve their concerns.

I advise clients on how to resolve their property-related concerns. These range from recovery of monies owing to property management, as well as recovery of possession, disputes between landlords and tenants, disputes with neighbours or other leaseholders, developers or site providers.

As an experienced member of the team, I enjoy supporting and encouraging junior lawyers to develop their knowledge and experience and see them grow in confidence.
